

Week 1

Tuesday 6 August 2019

In traditional Scottish summer fashion, our day started wet and a wee bit dreich!

Led by our two eldest children, a fun session on English began. All the children engaged well and with their customary enthusiasm. (The competitive elements involving fruits and swapping seating arrangements seemed particularly popular)

Following a quick refuelling snackstop, the children moved into “top-secret” mode as they seemed to be doing some concert / final event preparation! Again, and in keeping with tradition, all helpers had to make themselves scarce and stay out of the way!

The pre-lunch activities finished with a few games of twister, hamma bead thing (Bill’s annual therapy session) coupled with a game that seemed to involve “not blinking”

30-minutes later and closely watching the weather, we arrived at Hatton Tennis club. Suitably guided by resident coach Alex (who was as star with our kids) and with the weather gods also with us, the children embarked on a fun and highly active hour and half on the basics of tennis mixed in with a bundle of fun compy things!

Starting off with some running and listening to the coach boss, Alina W, Kira and Dima all excelled to reach the final of the 1st challenge “run to the net without being duped by coach boss Alex”

Back at base camp there was just enough time to watch some film which I had no idea of what it was about but, all the girls seemed to like it.
